

AJES

ADIRONDACK JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Volume 2, Number 1

Spring, 1995

*"Seeking Common Ground
among
A multitude of Viewpoints"*

FEATURING

New Roads, New Directions

Crossing the Blue Line

Sustainable Development — Putting It into Practice

Moose in New York — Past, Present, and Future

Photography by Mark Kurtz

AJES

Adirondack Journal of Environmental Studies

Spring 1995

Letters

5

New Roads, New Directions

Replenishing Adirondack luck while improving the economy Lee Wasserman

9

Crossing the Blue Line

An experience in extremes Claire Barnett

13

Sustainable Development — Putting It into Practice

Meeting a complicated global crisis head-on G. Gordon Davis

17

Moose in New York — Past, Present, and Future

Examining the return of moose to New York Al Hicks

26

Prerogative

2

Forum

6

Penultimate

32

AJES

ADIRONDACK JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Volume 2, Number 2

Fall/Winter, 1995

*“Seeking Common Ground
among
A multitude of Viewpoints”*

FEATURING

The Adirondack Park — a Look Back, a Look Ahead
The Uses of Bog River's Ruins
The Role of Private Preserves in the Adirondack Park
Photography by Gary Randorf

AJES

ADIRONDACK JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

Fall/Winter

1995

On Marcy (Photo by Gary Randorf)

Letters

4

The Adirondack Park: A Look Back, A Look Ahead

Varying Groups and Their Goals for the Adirondacks Philip Terrie

9

The Uses of Bog River's Ruins

The Adirondacks as a Cultural Landscape Michael Wilson

18

The Role of Private Preserves in the Adirondack Park

The Many Contributions of Private Preserves Edward Comstock, Jr.

32

Prerogative

2

Forum

5

Penultimate

40